THE STORY

Goldman Ismail is a firm of experienced trial lawyers who have a proven track record of success in high stakes litigation. Known for their teamwork and chemistry, the key ingredients to their clients' success, Goldman Ismail needed a space where they could collaborate and also meet with clients privately.

Goldman Ismail was a past client of Office Revolution, working together on furniture solutions for multiple locations. When they were preparing to relocate to a larger space, Office Revolution was called in as the furniture consultant for the project.

To create a work environment that offers a flexible mix of work and meeting space, we worked with sister company, Custom Crafters, to create custom library dividers and partial walls. These elements divide the open space into smaller work areas, encouraging collaboration, while still providing an open office feel. Private offices are equipped with Teknion HiSpace tables along with District and Expansion casegoods. Open areas are furnished with Teknion upStage workstations, with layers of elements and rich use of color to create a versatile and inspiring work environment.

As commercial offices continue to change rapidly, an innovative approach is required for workplaces to be nimble and deal with uncertainty. Office Revolution's design expertise helped take the confusion and stress out of designing the perfect law office for today and tomorrow.
