THE STORY

Abeona prides themselves on their breakthrough treatments and advanced solutions in their research, and their office interior is a reflection of this. The office is located on the top floor of an old manufacturing building, protecting some of the character of the space with exposed brick, open ceiling to the deck and exposed duct work and columns. They were not afraid to introduce some color, giving the space an energetic yet sophisticated aesthetic. Their space consists of an open office environment with an innovation space for team collaboration. Their café was designed to be a welcoming and comfortable place for employees to break from their work.
